Jumbo Group of Restaurants Launches JPOT, a premium hotpot concept done Singapore-Style at VivoCity

(Singapore) – Jumbo Group of Restaurants wish to announce the launch of their latest lifestyle F&B dining concept here at one of Singapore’s premium lifestyle destination, VivoCity. Branded as JPOT, diners can look forward to sumptuous hotpot dining in a 200-seater restaurant with both air-conditioned and al-fresco dining available.

JPOT will bring to the table, a keen sense of individualization for the discerning diner. Hotpots are served in individual portions (though shared bowls are also available), whilst serving utensils are provided to separate both raw and cooked food handling.

A personalized condiment bar with specially made JPOT sauces lends creativity and tasteful craft to every diner. More importantly, much culinary effort has also gone into the raw ingredients made available with the inclusion of highlights such as live seafood and dim sum specialties. Notwithstanding these, the award-winning team behind the Jumbo Seafood brand name have also taken time to develop seven different broths that can be enjoyed at JPOT – each characteristic of the high quality and taste required to cradle the hotpot experience.

“Ultimately with JPOT, we hope to re-define this highly popular dining tradition by way of ensuring that every hotpot served meets the high expectations of our diners in terms of taste, quality, price and hygiene. We hope that with this introduction of JPOT, food lovers will come to enjoy some classic Singapore flavoured-broths such as Bak Kut Teh and Laksa as well as experience exceptional quality available in our seafood offerings and quality meats which feature exemplary platters of Australian Kurobuta Pork and Wagyu Beef,” says Mr Ang Kiam Meng, General Manager of Jumbo Group of Restaurants.

The launch of JPOT marks the third brand that the Jumbo Group of Restaurant has developed in its foray into the sphere of lifestyle dining.
